Phytogen October 2015

ASPS awards open and employment opportunity at James Cook University QLD

30 October 2015

Your current membership is [wpmlfield name="membershiptype"] which is paid to [wpmlfield name="paidtodate"] (year, month, day).

Announcing the call for applications for 2016 ASPS awards including;

2016 Peter Goldacre award, applications close November 30th 2015.

2016 ASPS Teaching Award, applications close November 30th 2015.

2016 RN Robertson Travelling Fellowships, Round I applications close November 30th 2015.

There is also a new employment opportunity at James Cook University click here for details.

and attached is an updated

Calling all early-stage career scientists!

22 October 2015

Awards

The New Phytologist Tansley Medal is awarded annually in recognition of an outstanding contribution to research in plant science by an individual in the early stages of their career (student and post-doctoral researchers with up to five years' experience since gaining/defending their PhD are eligible). The winner will receive a prize of £2000 (GBP) and will author a short review that will be published in New Phytologist, accompanied by an Editorial announcing the winner and finalists. The application deadline for this year's Medal is 30 November 2015.

The Tansley Medal is an opportunity to award recognition to an outstanding scientist in the early stages of his or her career and supporting and nurturing the next generation of plant scientists is a core aspect of the activities of the New Phytologist Trust. I would be very grateful if you would support us in this endeavour by spreading the word to anyone you know who might be eligible to apply for the 2016 Tansley Medal. If you have any queries regarding the medal or the submission process please do not hesitate to get in touch. More details on the Medal can be found at: http://www.newphytologist.org/tansleymedal.

Chris Cazzonelli